DUNELLEN - The sign didn't last long, but evidently, David Starace caught the attention of borough officials. The Second Street resident, who said he has complained to the road department for months about a sinkhole adjacent to a sewer drain in front of his house, took matters into his own hands this week.

Starace and his neighbors on Second Street gathered for an Oktoberbest party on Sunday. Police blocked off their street between Madison and Lincoln, and everyone pitched in to cook plenty of rich, hardy German food. Even the bright white and orange road department barrel at the curbside was strung with lights.

The barrel was placed there by the road department months ago a day after police had placed an orange road cone alongside the sinkhole. Starace had called police, concerned a young child or latenight walker could stumble or trip because of the hole, which is more than a foot wide and several feet deep. Chunks of the road surface have broken off and fallen into the drain.

The homeowner says he called the road department several times; the second time was in advance of the block's July 4th party. "The guys I spoke to from the road department led me to believe it was their responsibility and they were going to fix it," Starace said.

Two weeks ago, he decided to decorate the barrel with a string of Christmas lights.

"I was truly surprised. There was no reaction at all, not a knock on the door, we'll get started, nothing no acknowledgement," he said.

So late in the afternoon Sunday, with oomp-pah music playing in the background, there was an impromptu stand-up meeting of what Starace calls the Second Street 400 club in the middle of the tree-lined street. That's where the idea of erecting the sign came up.

"It's a whole bunch of us," Starace explained. "We have a common goal here. We want that hole fixed." On Monday, Starace stretched a queen-size bed sheet around a metal frame, took a can of black and red

Officials demand cardiac unit at SMC

By CHAD HEMENWAY Staff writer

BOUND BROOK - In a show of bi-partisan solidarity, representatives from Somerset County municipalities gathered in Bound Brook Monday to urge Gov. James E. McGreevey to approve a cardiac unit at Somers et Medical Center.

Somerset Medical Center has applied for a Certificate of Need to provide cardiac services, including surgery, to residents of Somerset and Hunterdon counties who have no local option at the present time. Patients who need surgery must go to hospitals in New Brunswick or Morristown.

Bound Brook Mayor Frank Ryan, host of the press conference, said the lack of cardiac care at the medical center represents a major gap in health care in the area.

"As this region's population has escalated, so too has the traffic on our roadways," Ryan said "We are deeply troubled about the time it takes to get to the nearest medical center in the event of a cardiac emergency.

alike look for easy access to complete health care when making a decision to relocate to a given area," Hudak said. "Having complete comprehensive cardiac care at Somerset Medical Center is a big piece of the success puzzle

Somerville Mayor David Hollod pointed to statistics indicating Somerset and Hunterdon counties are projected to grow by 38 percent between 1990 and 2010 with much of the growth coming in older age brackets.

The tremendous growth in the area was continuously pointed out by the elected officials. Green Brook Mayor Patricia Walsh, a registered nurse, said the growth clearly indicates need.

"Things change," she said. "I think we have now the numbers in Somerset County to support a venture like this. You don't invest the money needed to run such a program without the statistics and we have the statistics to support

NICOLE DIMELLA/THE CHRONICLE Middlesex High School chemistry teacher Adele Hueston with a few of her rock painting creations.

Middlesex's 'rock lady'

By KATHLEEN G. SUTCLIFFE Correspondent

MIDDLESEX - Rocks, stones, and pebbles. These are Adele Hueston's canvas.

Hueston, a chemistry teacher for Middlesex High School for 15 years, began doodling designs on rocks after seeing the idea in an arts and crafts book and gave her first pieces away as gifts to family members. Two years later, Hueston says, it's impossible to meet the demand for her painted rocks and colleagues scramble for her latest creations.

Hueston says there is "absolutely" no connection between the world of rock painting and her career as a chemistry teacher. Except for the fact she uses one of her heavier stones as a bathroom pass to prevent students from abusing bathroom privileges. Her handiwork is on display throughout high school and in the span of several minutes, she manages to round up a dozen of her creations that her colleagues proudly display on their desks.

Hueston's customers are fiercely attached to her pieces and grudgingly allow Hueston tary in the main office, comto borrow their rocks for a photograph. "We're very possessive of pet rabbit, Thumper.

Some of Hueston's more innovative creations are animal rocks, a frog on a lily pad, a lizard on a flat, angular rock that lies flat in the palm of one's hand, a rabbit that nes-

Hueston recalls spying the rock from across a soccer field during a game, "one of the soccer moms helped me pick it up and move it across the field," she laughs.

A more typical source of rocks, Hueston says, is construction sites.

"I'll just drive past and say, 'Ooh, I like that rock, Hueston laughs, adding her 16-year-old son cringes when his mother slams on the brakes when a roadside rock catches her eye.

Hueston's colleagues agree and say Hueston's car should bear a bumper sticker reading "I brake for rocks."

"If she sees a rock from 40 paces, she dives out of her car," laughs Teitelbaum. "I want to have a whole

Ban on motor scooters considered

By CHERYL ORSON Correspondent

PISCATAWAY - The council is thinking about restricting or even baaning gasolinepowered scooters.

At last week's meeting, Councilman James Huben recommended looking into minimum age, registration, insurance, helmet and head and taillight laws on these vehicles which are popular among teenagers. He said he had received several complaints from residents concerned with safety issues in relation to scooters.

Acting attorney Peter Vignuolo, substituting for Township Attorney James Clarkin, said the gasolinepowered scooters actually fall under Title 39 in the state's motor vehicle statues, defining them to be in the same category as motorcycles. However, unlike motorcycles, gasoline-powered scooters are not permitted to be used on public streets as they don't meet minimum basic vehicle standards of road-worthiness. "They wouldn't be able to operate them on New Jersey roads anyway," said Vignuolo. Mayor Brian Wahler recommended contacting the state League of Municipalities to see how other municipalities have addressed this issue. Council President Steve Cahn said he wanted more information on how the township's police department classifies and deals with these vehicles. "I think we're on target," said Councilman Kenneth Saunders, stating the more popular they are the more dangers they present. "Children are adventurous. challengeable and daring will take to top-notch speeds going down roads like daredevils. This definitely should be looked at."

recommended police officers stop those using these vehicles and issue warnings not to be on public streets. He said this, rather than ticketing, should suffice to discourage this illegal practice. He also said the township should do what it can to prevent a potential death, stating he did not want Piscataway to be the first municipality in this area to experience such a tragedy.

Councilwoman Loretta Kiemel went even further, stating advisory notices should be issued to minor's parents or guardians in these cases as they might not be aware these vehicles are not street legal. Huben agreed though he said he believed it was the seller's responsibility to warn purchasers of these vehicles' limits.

While not suggesting any specific ordinances on these vehicles at this time, township officials said this is their ulti-

His intention is to donate the money that was collected to the borough's first aid squad.

However, Mayor Robert Fax us your news! Seader was not amused by the (908) 575-6683 display. "To do what he did was childish," Seader said. "He's never come to council meetings; he's never called me.'

Sign draws attention to hole

The mayor said the sinkhole has been on the public work's agenda for several months, but it got "put on the backburner" due to a busy summer season. "The guys have been working hard," he said. "The last six months, they've really been under the gun." The mayor said the sinkhole will be addressed shortly.

A motorist stopped to tell Starace someone from the borough's road department had stopped off shortly after 8:30 a.m. Wednesday to remove the sign and strip the lights off the barrel.

In place of the sign, a brokenline square was spray painted on the road surface with an X in the middle adjacent to the storm drain.

"Well, that's something new," Starace said, looking at the square. "Maybe something's finally going to get done."

The road department returned the sign later that day and said the hole will be fixed next week. Starace is gratified it accomplished more than drawing attention to the sinkhole

"There's a positive side to this," he said. "The best thing that's happened is the speeders doing 40 mph were slowing down to read the sign."

says, adding she ordered an extra yard of rocks when contractors redid her poolside terrace, to cut back on her rock-scavenging habit.

Hueston's largest rock canvas was a small boulder excavated from the grounds of Saint Joseph's in Metuchen during the school's construction. Hueston painted the rock and donated it back for the school's annual yard sale where it fetched $50. Hueston says she charges $3 to $4 for a small rock, but her creations have fetched up to $100 at silent auctions.

Hueston uses the money she raises from the sale of her rocks in part to sponsor youth participants of the American Baptist assembly conference in Wisconsin. Hueston sent three participants with nearly $600 she'd earned in rock sales.

By all accounts, Hueston's creations seem to benefit everyone they touch, including their creator.

"Ever since she started painting rocks," Teitelbaum says, "she has been a different person ... It's like rock therapy."

Terminally-ill witness describes murder of his son

By CHERYL ORSON Correspondent

SOUTH PLAINFIELD — A terminally-ill key prosecution witness of a 2002 borough strangulation murder gave testimony recorded by a video camera for later use in the suspect's upcoming trial.

On Oct. 2, Raymond Dutton, 82, diagnosed with terminal lung cancer, testified from hospital gurney wheeled into the chambers of Superior Court Judge Philip Paley in New Brunswick. In this manner Dutton gave a formal deposition about his witnessing his stepson, Roger Cassett, 59, being allegedly strangled to death by indicted suspect, Jonathan Moorman, in the borough house Dutton and Cassett shared.

Moorman was previously indicted with Cassett's March 31, 2002 strangulation murder. No date has yet been set for Moorman's trial in which he faces the death penalty. The recorded deposition insures its future use should Dutton, now under hospice care, die before the trail occurs, said Middlesex Superior Court County Assistant Prosecutor Thomas Kapsak who conducted questioning during this deposition.

After visiting friends in Plainfield, Dutton said he house. Dutton said when tried to go to the house's computer room however, the man, later identified as Moorman, asked him who he was. Dutton said he replied he lived there and asked the man who he was, allegedly receiving no reply in return. Continuing past Moorman, entering the computer room, Dutton said he found Cassett lying on the floor "hog-tied" with duct tape.

Shortly after this, Dutton said, Moorman allegedly brandished a gun, (later found to be fake), and ordered him to the floor where he was likewise bound with duct tape as Cassett had previously been. Dutton said Moorman then left the room, allegedly ransacking the house though returning every five minutes to check on them. During this time Dutton said Cassett, who was not gagged, allegedly identified the man as "Junie's kid," a family nickname for father, Joh Moorman's Moorman, Sr.

Continuing this way for an unknown amount of time, Dutton said Moorman then again returned to the computer room where he looked down at Cassett and asked, "Will you forgive me?"

"'If you don't hurt me," Dutton said Cassett replied, becoming visibly emotionally, exactly how allegedly strangled Cassett.

Dutton then testified, "I saw him (Moorman) putting an electrical cord around his (Cassett's) neck He (Moorman) tightened it (the cord) and lifted up his (Cassett's) whole head and body, dropping it to the floor." After repeating this process about four times, Dutton testified, "Roger was no longer moving."

While Cassett was being strangled, Dutton said, he was able to free his hands and crawl out of the room only to be allegedly dragged back by Moorman and tied up again, this time with electric cord instead of duct tape. Dutton said after this Moorman allegedly continued to ransack the house, returning only to tighten his restraints.

Dutton also testified Moorman at some point allegedly said he killed Cassett because he "knew who he (Cassett) was" and asked if Cassett had told him (Dutton) anything as to his (Moorman's) identity while the two were alone in the room. Dutton testified he replied Cassett had not told him anything, stating, "I did not want to set this guy (Moorman) off."

Eventually able to free himself, though fearing Moorman might still be in the house, Dutton said he waited to call police using his cell phone around 3:45 a.m. "The telephone lines in the house had been cut," Dutton said.

Moorman allegedly took two large jars of coins, including old coins kept as collector's items, from the house. These items were later recovered not far from the scene of the crime and are being held in evidence, Kapsak said.

Moorman's attorney, James Wronko, claimed Moorman killed Cassett because Cassett has sexually molest-ed him as a boy. Cassett's friends and relatives have vehemently denied this allegation, stating Cassett was a much-beloved Plainfield High School wrestling coach whose memorial service, held in the school during a vacation period, was attended by thousands.

Kapsak said, in addition to murder, Moorman was indicted with felony murder, kidnapping, robbery, attempted burglary, theft, possession of a weapon for unlawful purposes and possession of an imitation firearm for unlawful purposes. Kapsak said he did not know when Moorman's trial might be expected to be held.

Appalled at senior shuttle canceling

To The Chronicle:

As a senior citizen in Edison, I was appalled to read in the paper that the Spadoro administration is canceling the senior shopper's shuttle for residents from the Village Court Senior Apartments. Many people depend upon that shuttle to get to and from the supermarket on a regular basis. They have no other means of getting their groceries.

We seniors built this country. We served in our nation's wars against fascism and communism. We worked hard all of our lives from nine to five and sometimes longer to make this country what it is today. We worked to raise our children to be solid citizens. Now, this is how our current council thanks us?

I also saw the comments in the paper by members of the Spadoro administration saying that the senior shuttle was "demeaning and degrading" because it is "segregated," meaning that only seniors are allowed to ride the shuttle. Who do they think is going to ride a senior shuttle?

This is a ridiculous extension of their liberal ideology. There is nothing demeaning or degrading about a program designed to help seniors. Do they also think that Medicare and Social Security are demeaning and degrading?

I also saw the Spadoro Democrats' assurance that all will be well. They tell us that the shuttle will be "replaced" with a mass transit bus system. But they warn us that the bus drivers in a mass transit system won't be able to help seniors with their packages.

Is this what we've come to in Edison? Has Edison really become Jersey City or Newark?

Do we really treat one another so coldly that we can't help one another? Are these Democrats really so enamored of their mass transit system that they don't want to help seniors?

The Republican candidates for council say they would support the senior shuttle. Frankly, I trust the Republicans to keep Edison small. The Democrats seem to approve every application from every developer. They think that mass transit is better than a little senior shuttle. In the many years that I've been in Edison, I've seen the Democrats turn my little town into an overcrowded city full of rude drivers and too much traf-should retire the Democrats on the council.

Support South Plainfield library plan

To The Chronicle:

On Sept. 18, I was in attendance at the South Plainfield Council meeting, during which Councilman Robert Cusik announced his proposal to construct a new Public Library Building. Both myself, as President of the South Plainfield Library Board of Trustees, and my colleagues on the Board who were in attendance, were extremely heartened by the enthusiastic and unanimous support this proposal from received Mayor Gallagher and the other Council members.

The current Library was opened in 1965 and was build to house 45,000 volumes. We currently have over 55,000 volumes in our collection. We would like to expand this number, but there is no space to do so. According to a study prepared by an outside consultant in 1990, the Library building was undersized by at least fifty per cent when it opened. Since 1998, the date of the last renovation, our circulation has increased from 88,000 to a projected 150,000 for 2003. Membership in the library has also increased significantly.

Anyone who has used the Library recently knows how overcrowded it is. In fact, many of our patrons have commented that they would like to see a much larger, modern facility, which would contain: an expanded and separate children's area, a computer training room for the classes that are given at the library, a meeting room where other civic groups can conduct their meetings, and a larger reading area. Historically, the public library has been one of the few places where all citizens, toddlers and senior citizens alike can find different activities and interact in a quiet and friendly atmosphere. A modern, state of the art Library will not only continue that tradition, but also enhance the quality of life for our residents for years to come.

To quote one of the most famous lines from the movie "Field of Dreams", "If you build it, they will come." On behalf of the Library Board of Trustees and the staff of the library, I commend Councilman Cusick and the current administration for its foresight in proposing to construct a new South Plainfield Public Library. I urge all South Plainfield residents to support this wonderful prolect.

Councilman asks for voter support

To The Chronicle:

Once again I am asking for the support of the Dunellen residents in re-electing me to a second term as Borough Councilman. The past three years flew by but were very exciting and productive.

Three years ago I promised that if the residents chose me as a councilman they would not be disappointed. Not only did I work hard to accomplish all of my goals but I actually had fun doing so. The following are some highlights of my first term as Councilman.

Successfully wrote grants resulting in awards to the Borough valued at $268 thousand dollars for projects including decorative lighting, benches, enhancements to Borough Hall, and Trees. I started the Dunellen Shade Tree Commission, which has successfully planted over 150 trees to date with 50 more to be planted this fall. Received approval from the State program Forestry for Dunellen's Forestry Plan. I study which is a key element to initiate the redevelopment of our downtown, held town meetings with residents and business owners to review the redevelopment plans, worked closely with the Middlesex Improvement Authority outlining goals and financial programs, and established a working relationship with some key property owners within the redevelopment plan for future developments. The Recreation Committee and I hired our current Recreation Director, enhanced the recreation programs, held two outdoor Family Movie Nights in conjunction with Middlesex Recreation Department, assisted in establishing Seniors Movie Day at the Dunellen Theater, and enhanced the Holiday Tree Lighting Ceremony to include Church Choirs, School Bands, Sing-a-longs and luminaries. In addition, I supported and assisted the Dunellen's Street Fair and Railroad Days completed the redevelopment events, started an Arbor Day Celebration involving children from our schools and Scouts, and supported the hiring of a part-time code enforcer to enhance the maintenance of properties throughout the Borough. As a resident, I continued to coach Peewee baseball and Girls softball, completed my Masters Degree from Seton Hall University and have had our third daughter.

As you can see I have been busy and believe that I met my promises and have not disappointed the residents of Dunellen. The current Mayor and Council along with my new running mate Jeff Dunsavage have great plans for the Borough and need your support. Although much has been completed there is more to do and I remain extremely committed and energetic to see Dunellen be the best possible community.

Thank you in advance for your anticipated support. KEN BAUDENDISTEL in Middlesex Borough is dead. The all Republican Council voted unanimously (at least those four members who were present) to authorize the borough engineer to solicit bids for the bike way for which the council has passed a Bond Ordinance funding the project to the extent of $164,300.00. This, despite the fact that, at the public hearing which the governing body held to allow the public to express their sentiments-concerning the proposed bikeway, there was almost unanimous opinion expressed to the governing' body the residents to be affected by the bikeway that they were opposed to it's construction in their area. The residents also indicated that the project- that only seven to nine trees ed cost for the project was much too expensive and felt that this money could and should be much better utilized for a different project which would benefit more people, or should be used to reduce taxes. When people take the time to attend a meeting and express their opinions and when their opinions are ignored, people tend to lose faith in government. Why take the time to go to a meeting when your opinion considered?

Put Democrats onto borough council

The Mayor indicated that he too was in favor of a bikeway but not at the proposed location and not for the projected cost and he suggested that the bikeway should wait until levies were constructed on the banks of the Green Brook as part of the Green Brook flood control project because they, the levies, would provide a safer place for a bikeway and would not cause any damage to the environment as would the proposed bikeway which will go through the existing nature walkway behind Mountainview Park. The proposed bikeway will result in the loss of between 50 and 70 trees although the council attempted to lead the people to conclude would have to be removed to accommodate the proposed bikeway. The mayor was the only member of the governing body who responded to the complaints of the residents and supported their opposition to the proposed bikeway. The council has again demonstrated its fiscal irresponsibility by proceeding with this project, which will benefit only a few people and which will cost an inordinate amount of money.

will be ignored and not even They are spending $114,300.00 to get a state grant of $50,000 for a project most people in town do not want. How can they justify spending this much money when taxes are out of control and they should be trying to conserve money and cut spending? This is how this council operates. They spend money foolishly and they ignore the will of the people. If this is the type of government that you want for the borough, then keep these people in office but if you want representative government and people who will listen to your problems and watch how and where your tax dollars are spent, then I urge you to re-elect Mayor Dobies and to elect his Democratic running mates, Giancarlo Colitti, Stephanie Quast and Jerry D'Angelo. One party government is rarely good for the people and it has taken this council only two years to prove this fact. Look at your tax bill today and compare the tax increase for the past two years under this Republican administration with the tax increases for the previous five years under a Democratic administration. The proof is in the pudding.

Contradictions on open space plans

When it comes to preserving open space in Piscataway, there is a disturbing contradiction between what our elected representatives say, and what they do.

They have condemned the farm of a family that has paid taxes since 1922 and who has contributed 25 acres to the Piscataway and Middlesex County made an Open Space Agreement (to purchase the Cornell Farm) which contains a provision that allows the county to sell, lease, donate or exchange the farm - in other words to develop it!

If the elected body is serious about preserving the farm, then why aren't they saving other environmentally sensitive land - such as land with wetlands, ponds, forests, streams, flood zones, native plants, and/or wildlife?

Why has their rubber-stamp Planning Board recently granted numerous variances for construction of more than 370 new houses, two new strip malls, two huge warehouse distribution centers, a hotel and an office building? Why are elected representatives supporting construction of a new four-lane state highway through the center of town? And why have they stood silent while dozens of acres of forest and wetlands have been desecrated?

Equally disturbing is that during this process, the elected and appointed bodies have violated Constitutional property rights, the State Open Speech Law, and the public's right to know. And they've ignored the goals of the Piscataway Site Plan Ordinance, Tree Ordinance, Master Plan, and State Wetland Protection Laws. Why?

ED MARSH Piscataway Republican picnic in park a success

To The Chronicle:

This year's Republican Party Picnic in the Park held on Saturday, Sept. 6 was a great success because of so many. It was a beautiful day to gather with family, friends and residents. Thank you to the committee members for their donation of food. Supporting ful assortment of prepared dishes and homemade desserts added to the day's enjoyment.

Thank you, especially to all those local merchants and businesses for their support through the ad booklet and enormous energy. A wonder- each other builds a great com-

Join us this year by electing Bruce Sadowski for mayor, Laura Thomasey, Lou Curcio and Barbara Ferris for council.

Democrats seem unwilling to act

To The Chronicle:

When are we going to demand that our town not be run by those who profit from our tax dollars?

Scandal after scandal has rocked the McGreevey administration. We all know about the governor's trips to Ireland and Puerto Rico at taxpayer expense. We also all know about his scandalous appointments of Santiago and Cipel as political payback. As a result, Gov. McGreevey's poll numbers have plummeted. A story that has received less attention is the effort by local Democrats to protect their "pay to play" businessas-usual attitude. All over the area, Republicans are stepping up to pass a "pay to play" ordinance first put forward by Common Cause that would make it impossible for either side to make money from the taxpayers.

Sadly, the Democrats have too much to lose to ever agree to shut off the valve of corruption by agreeing to the ordinance. Their campaigns depend upon the money they receive from developers, lawyers, engineers, planners and all the other people who make their living on our property tax dollars.

First, Democrats in Franklin and then in South Brunswick blocked adoption of a "pay to play" ordinance. Now, Democrats in Edison have shown no indication at all that they will pass the ordi-Edison that nance Republicans have already endorsed. It seems that only Republicans are willing to say no to the developers.

A quick look at where the Edison Democrats get their money tells the tale as to why the Democrats are so reluctant to adopt an ordinance that would end the sleaze. Nearly every area developer has given them money.

Edison has become overdeveloped over the years because it has been in the political interest of the local Democrats to allow them to build. Meanwhile, as the new developments put an added drain on municipal services, our property taxes go through the roof.

We could end the overdevelopment and slow the upward spiral in our property taxes immediately with a single ordinance. But that won't happen so long as the same Democratic machine remains in power. Unless the voters remove the current council from office, the machine of build and tax, tax and build will continue to grind slowly forward.

Letters to the editor

Sadowski and team for Middlesex

To The Chronicle:

For the past nine years, I have lived as a neighbor to both Mayor Ron Dobies and council president-mayoral candidate Bruce Sadowski. I have gotten to know both men and feel qualified to say the following about both of them: "They are both 100 percent committed to putting the citizens of Middlesex Borough first and foremost." Lost in all the rhetoric that gets thrown about is the fact that these two candidates are trying to get elected to a position that carries more grief than glory, more headaches than handshakes.

Ron Dobies has been the mayor of Middlesex for almost a quarter of a century. He has overseen our borough during a time when our nation and state were growing at unheard of rates. The Services elected officials challenges that Mayor Dobies met were many and he deserves our thanks for a job well done. He has performed a thankless job and it is time that we thank him. It is also time that he steps aside.

The challenges that lie ahead are compounded by the fact that our nation's and state's economies are no longer as strong as they once were. Local governments all around are facing new and more difficult challenges and I'm just afraid that Mayor Dobies is not up to the task. Bruce Sadowski has gone out of his way to ensure he has all the tools to revitalize Middlesex. He has been certified by the New Jersey Economic Development Institute and the Rutgers Center for Government program. Bruce and his team are committed to providing tax relief and controlling expenses. I have not seen this level of commitment from the Democratic team.

Bruce and his team are also deeply committed to the youth and recreation in town. The Republican council provided this by obtaining a $240,000 grant for work on restoring soccer fields at Mountain View Park. This is great news! I have not seen this type of commitment to youth from the our Democratic team.

Please join me on Nov. 4 in supporting the team of Bruce Sadowski, Laura Thomasey, Lou Curcio and Barbara Ferris. They will fight for all of us.

Pilato helped put borough into debt

To The Chronicle:

When Mr. Pilato was appointed to the council for six months in 1998, his first vote was to authorize a $601,000 bond and later a $137,500 bond and then of our high taxes and $116,000 for a garbage truck. He spent almost $1 seems to me cutting spend-

I would like to take this opportunity to introduce myself to the residents of Middlesex who may not know me. Ladies Auxiliary, Project Graduation, recreation and class mother, know that I work with enthusiasm, dedication, leadership and competency. I will take these qualities and use them to put the well-being of the borough first if I am elected in November. I will look for low cost or no cost improvements for our parks, stabilize taxes through economic development and improve communications between the residents and the elected officials. Taking a practical approach

ities, such as Little League to borough development, I will include the residents to set the direction for the years to come. This has been my town and it will be for many more years, so let's make it the best that we can. Please vote for the Republicans, Sadowski, Curcio, Ferris and Thomasev, on Nov. 4 so we can begin to make some positive changes in our wonderful town.

Dobies the clear choice for mayor

To The Chronicle:

The clear choice for Mayor in Middlesex is Ron Dobies! How can anyone argue with his long standing commitment to serving his community? How can anyone complain about the outstanding services from our Department, Police Department of Public Works, or any of those friendly and helpful people who attend to our municipal needs at Borough Hall, the Recreation Department, or the Office on Aging? These departments have all blossomed and flourished under Mayor Dobies' leadership. Mr. Dobies is a man of unquestioned integrity, has the experience and contacts to get things accomplished, and is a tireless worker. Middlesex has been and continues to be a great place to live - and the consistency in borough leadership has something to do with that!

While no one is ever happy with taxes at any level, the Mayor has for years been a major voice is fiscal responsibility with the Municipal budget. Perhaps we voters should look at the very small increases in the Municipal tax bill during the Dobies years when Ron's voice was welcomed!

The opposition party preached loud and long during the past several campaigns about the merits of the two-party system. Well.

they've had control for two full years now - so perhaps it's time to return to a two party form of government and vote in Quast, Collitti, and D'Angelo. Certainly the cur-rent council has done very little to follow up on their promises to the people of Middlesex. Major issues remain such as taxes, the future development of the landfill, the completion of the Victor Crowell Park project, and Economic Development. Let's have all the people represented! Let's elect some Democrats and keep Middlesex moving!

The 'Barman' cometh to The Forum Theatre tonight

Local playwright and filmmaker to debut his first movie at the Metuchen theater

By CHERYL ORSON Correspondent

METUCHEN — Borough resident and playwright Alex Dawson will be premiering his first film "Barman" at the Forum Theater on Oct. 11.

Based on his off-Broadway play of the same name, Dawson said "Barman" was inspired by his five-year stint as the weekbarkeep for New end Brunswick's The Plum Street Pub. He describes his most recent production, a mix of both memoir and fiction, as "an exploration of the codes and rituals of American manhood chronicling the rise and fall of a 40-something gin mill bartender."

As for the Plum Street Bar itself, Dawson said the local tavern was "a smoke-filled box" best described as "an ashtray with furniture."

"It walls were cell block gray and its pool table, angled upward and hole-burned by a thousand Kool Kings, together with an array of snapped cues and a three-legged pinball machine gave it the overall appearance of a prison rec room," said Dawson. "But the drinks were cheap and the jukebox, decent."

In August 2002 however, the

New Brunswick City Council, not at all amused with the tavern's seedy ambiance, voted to shut it down. Serving as a blessing in disguise, this allowed Dawson and his film crew and actors unprecedented access to the now-condemned Plum Pub. They used this time to their advantage, transforming the pub into a live movie set to shoot the film "Barman" onlocation inside the actual site which inspired the script, a rarity among films.

"Each stain in the Plum Pub told a story," said Dawson. "The crumbling tavern seemed a manifestation of the decade of moral turpitude it had contained. Like Monument Valley in the films of John Ford, the location became a character."

Besides using the actual location to shoot the film, Dawson also used local talent. One of the featured actresses in "Barman," portraying the character of Grace, is fellow borough resident Amy Parlow. Before joining Dawson's film company, Bon Bock, Parlow was also a much in-demand fashion runway model for four years. After tiring of running up and down the runway, Parlow decided to parlay her modeling skills into her current acting career.

Behind the scenes, the film

crew also features other fellow borough residents: cinematographer Marc-Eric Nielsen, assistant director Sean Ryan and producers Jane Hardy, John McKelvey and Gareth Smith. Also, the film's soundtrack was created by borough musician Jeremy Benson, who had performed many times with his bands, including various Roadside Graves and Home Alaskan, at the Plum Pub while it was still a functioning bar. "Their contributions were obviously essential and inestimable," said Dawson of his borough crew crediting them with the film's success.

Dawson came to New Jersey when he was 17 to study painting at Rutgers University's Mason Gross School of the Arts. He dropped out after three years, only a year short of graduating. He then worked for a couple years as a carpenter/set dresser on movie sets, developing an interest in films and theater, before once again returning to Rutgers College and at last graduating with honors in 1994 with a degree in English. Paying off his college bills, Dawson alternately worked as a bartender both in New York City and the Plum Pub and elsewhere for a little more than 10 years, a bouncer, a roofer and a even served a very brief stint as a carriage driver in Central Park. Eventually having gained some stable financial footing, Dawson returned to his first loves of film and theater.

Over the past five years, Dawson has written and designed more than 20 plays for the New York stage, including "Welcome to New Jersey," "Deep in the Jeeps of Georgia," "Room to Swing an Axe" and of course, his off-Broadway production of "Barman" upon which his first film is based. Having come a long way from his barkeep days, Dawson said he is pleased to be able to return to his roots and debut his first film in his hometown in the Forum Theater.

With his first film now under his belt, Dawson said he is already hard at work on his next project, "Welcome to New Jersey," again adapted from one of his plays of the same name. Set in a turnpike break lounge, this latest production deals with the lives of four unfulfilled Jersey Pike toll-takers and the tedium of their shift work.

Though there are no plans yet to turn this work into a movie, Dawson said one can never tell what the future might hold, especially in New Jersey where he says, based on his own experiences here, "anything is possible.

Those interested in attending the "Barman" premiere can contact The Forum Theater at 314 Main St. in Metuchen by calling (732) 548-0582, suggested admission (a donation) is $10. Those interested in Dawson and his projects can visit his official website at www.bonbock.com

Chiefs' late touchdowns turn back Hawks

By DAVE ALLENA Staff Writer

EDISON - Once again the numbers by the Chiefs don't jump out at you, except for one - the growing figure in the victory column.

Although the offense managed only 155 yards and the defense allowed nearly 200, the Piscataway High football squad again found a way to win as their special teams and turnovers from its defense carried the play, while the Chiefs made the plays down the stretch to turn back J.P. Stevens 28-14 in an early-season battle of unbeaten GMC-Red Division squads Oct. 3.

In a game that saw the Hawks twice come back from a touchdown behind to knot the game — the second time with 5:26 remaining in the game — Piscataway had the final responses with two scores during the final two minutes, both by Tyree Cooper.

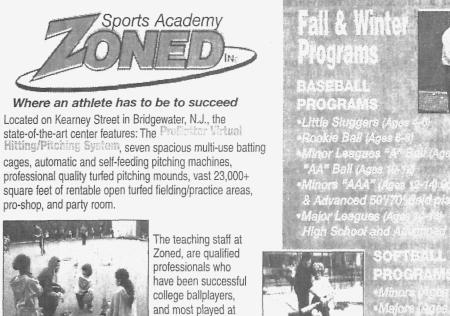

So far, all the Chiefs have done is win, four times now.

"I'm excited we're 4-0, but I believe in the talent level we have so I'm not surprised," Head Coach Dan Higgins said. "I thought the experience factor would hurt us early in the season, but we've hung in there, overcome some adversity and we've gotten better as the season has gone along. We're going to be a force in the second half.

"Defensively I knew we would be solid again because of the speed we have, and I kind of felt our special teams would be very good because of our talent. I felt our offense would take some time

Schneider lifts Jays over Bulldogs

MIDDLESEX - After showing some improvement despite lopsided losses in their previous two starts, the Blue Jays took a giant step against Metuchen.

Although not in the same class with Spotswood and New Brunswick, teams that had defeated the Blue Jays to drop them to 0-3, the Bulldogs figured to provide a bigger challenge than the 33-12 beating the Middlesex High football team put on them Oct. 3.

Having scoring only one touchdown in three starts, the Middlesex offense exploded against Metuchen (1-3) in the GMC-Blue Division game as senior Nick Schneider ran the Blue Jays option offense to near perfection.

A 1,000-yard runner a year ago at tailback, Schneider turned in a monster effort against the Bulldogs as he rolled up 214 rushing yards and scored five times on only 13 attempts to lead a ground game that surpassed 300 yards. "Statistically, Nick is actually having a better season at this point than he was last year," Middlesex Head Coach Rich Gianchiglia said. "He's averaging 8.9 yards a carry. He's been working hard, and what he's done is credit to him, the line and his backs who have all worked hard.

"This is not an easy offense to run, but I believe the boys are starting to mesh. It's an offense that takes a lot of time to learn and a lot of discipline. What we did against Metuchen feels good because it means all the hard work has paid off.

"To be honest I think we gained actually gained some confidence in the losses to Spotswood (44-6) and New Brunswick (41-0). The scores don't show it, but we moved the ball against both those teams. There has been improvement since the start of the season, and the boys see it."

Metuchen Head Coach Bob Ulmer also recognized that the Blue Jays were better than their record, and credits Schneider's deception as a key factor in why Middlesex was able to move the ball so well.

"We didn't go into that game over-confident at all. We knew Middlesex would be good," he said. "I saw how much they improved between their second and third games. We had our worst game and they played their best one. But I was impressed with Middlesex. I have to tip my hat to those kids.

"We had three turnovers that didn't help, and we failed to make a fourth-and-one play. The big problem though, was they had excellent deception. We had trouble at times locating the ball. It got so bad that the ref blew the play dead on one play and Nick (Schneider) was standing in the end zone." Metuchen, which totaled almost 200 yards in offense as Stephon Cooper carried 27 times for 139 yards and one TD, had the game's first threat. The Bulldogs reached the Middlesex 16, but fumbled it away.

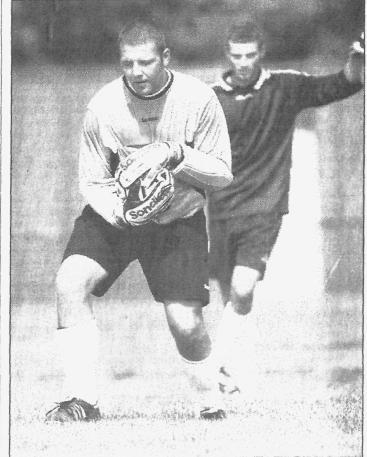

A couple of plays later Schneider bolted 68 yards to open the scoring. Two plays after the kickoff Metuchen lost another fumble, this time at its 34. On the first play of the second period Schneider dashed 24 yards. On the final play of the first half Schneider went 19 yards, while Dan Esposito's conversion run made it 21-0 at the break.

Fumbling away the secondhalf kickoff, the Bulldogs giftwrapped another opportunity and Middlesex capitalized on Schneider's 15-yard run. The score remained 27-0 until the fourth quarter when Cooper scored from the 1 to end the scoring drought for the Bulldogs.

Schneider finished off his spectacular night when he scored on a 9-yard run, while Dan Kane returned the ensuing kickoff 75 yards to complete the scoring.

Middlesex will look to make it two straight today and get back in the hunt for a playoff berth when it visits 3-1 Cardinal McCarrick, which edged Metuchen 13-12 and beat Dunellen 21-6 last week. Metuchen, meanwhile, figures to have their hands full against 3-0 Spotswood, which spanked South River 35-19.

Tigers' ground attack runs by Monroe

Bounding back from a big loss to Vineland, the South Plainfield High football team used a punishing ground game to steamroll Monroe 33-14 Oct. 3 to even its record at 2-2 with the GMC-White Division triumph.

Cardinal McCarrick 21, Dunellen 6 - The Destroyers scored their first points of the season, but it was not enough to defeat McCarrick (3-1) in a GMC-Blue Division game Saturday that left Dunellen with an 0-4 mark.

The Destroyers were still in the game at halftime when they trailed 6-0, but Yare Kozlowski notched a pair of second-half touchdowns to give the Eagles a 21-0 lead ed 5 of 12 passes.

before quarterback Matt Ferreri scored in a 1-yard run in the second period.

Kozlowski finished three yards shy of 200 yards rushing as he repeatedly pounded awat at the Dunellen defense, while Keon Campbell and Kyle Quinn picked up 27 yards apiece for Dunellen and Ferreri completed 4 of 11 passes for 93 yards, including a 61yard connection with Matt Byrnes to set up the touchdown by Ferreri.

South Brunswick 14, Edison 0 - Defensively Edison limited an improved South Brunswick squad to a single touchdown but the Eagles failed to get into the end zone themselves and dropped a GMC-Red Division verdict Oct. 3 to slip to 0-4 for the season.

After holding off the Vikings (2-1) for the second time inside their 10 in the second half, the Eagles surrendered the clinching score on a fumble in the end zone with 4:43 remaining in the game, While East Brunswick was the team story, Kuznetsova proved to be the headliner on the individual side. Trailing 1-6, 0-3 when rain suspended play last Saturday, Kuznetsova recovered Tuesday against Mirjam Jusik to earn the third singles crown by winning 12 of 13 games for the 1-6, 6-3, 6-1 victory for her second straight title.

Zhang, meanwhile, had little difficulty in claiming the first singles flight. With the first set in hand from Saturday, the top-seeded Zhang closed out Anna Tarasova for a 6-3, 6-1 triumph. Teammate Ryan Johnson was not as fortunate.

A defending champion, Johnson entered Tuesday with one-set advantage over EB's Luiza Kiyamova, who staged a comeback to take a 1-6, 7-6 (7-5), 6-4 decision and prevent Stevens, which fell short 18-17 a year ago, from earning a share of the championship.

The tournament had turned in East Brunswick's favor last Saturrday when the doubles matches were played to completion as Merrin Konar and Katherine Chen knocked off the Hawks' Dawn Kang and Priya Sachdeva 6-4, 6-1, Kang and Sachdeva earned a victory in the regular-season match to decide a 3-2 Stevens victory.
