

Wednesday Walk from Wog Wog Campground, Morton National Park – 17 April 2013

The Wog Wog camping area is off Charleys Forest Road, not far from the intersection with the Nerriga road. The walk descends through open woodland to Wog Wog Creek which we crossed then rises to a plateau where we found the banksias we were looking for. There were many Banksia spinulosa and B. paludosa – from buds through to full flowers in an array of colours. We also found one B. marginata in flower. There was the odd pea flowering - Mirbelia platylobioides, Bossiaea prostrata - one Dampiera stricta flower, quite a lot of Epacris microphylla with flowers, Goodenia hederacea ssp. alpestris, Hibbertia riparia, Mitrasacme polymorpha and Comesperma sphaerocarpum. Other interesting plants were Patersonia sericea, P. longifolia, Gompholobium minus (and another one which we couldn't ID), Chloanthes stoechadis, Petrophile sessilis, Isopogon anemonifolius, I. anethifolius, Hakea laevipes, H. microcarpa, H. sericea and Pomaderris phyllicifolia ssp. ericoides. Some of us had a quick foray across the road in another area of Morton National Park to see if it warranted a separate visit - probably. On our way home we stopped for the nice stand of Eucalyptus moorei on the roadside.
